All's fair in love and war...

...But what about divorce?

Vardags Manchester explains why sometimes, settling for anything less than the best could be the biggest mistake of your life.

No one expects their divorce to be easy. But many learn too late the extreme tactics their partner will employ to gain the upper hand.

When your world has been turned upside down, developing a divorce strategy may not be the first thing on your mind. That's why being represented by the very best lawyers will ensure you're prepared for whatever is around the corner. With your team fighting the dirty tricks for you, you can focus on finding your feet.

IN YOUR CORNER

Clients praise office head Emma Gill's no-nonsense attitude and tough negotiating skills, reinforced by her unwavering personal support and down-to-earth manner. She has built a reputation as celebrities' divorce lawyer of choice and is an expert in navigating the financial fallout from marriage breakdown.

Vardags' growing team in the heart of Manchester's city centre

Working alongside Emma is Vicki McLynn, a specialist in family law for two decades. Adept with financial and children cases alike, she represents parents in child arrangement disputes. Her wealth of experience and calm composure leaves clients reassured that they are in the best hands.

If you are up against dirty tactics from your ex, you'll need lawyers with the sharpest minds to fight for you. With unrelenting determination and keen attention to detail, Vardags Manchester works tirelessly to give you the very best chance of winning.

DEVIOUS TRICKS

We have seen exes secretly spending or hiding the marital assets before divorce proceedings have even begun, which can shrink your final settlement. We've seen heated arguments lead to malicious character assassination. This might not only damage your reputation, but can lead to complications when it comes to child custody agreements.

In financially complex, high-value divorces, the risk of foul play is as great as the assets at stake. Vardags' unique inhouse team of forensic accountants can see through skilfully devised strategies, and uncover even the most carefully hidden assets.

Press interest or character assassination is often a concern in high-profile cases. Our divorce lawyers work seamlessly with our Reputation & Privacy department to ensure your privacy is protected and your reputation remains intact. Together, we can handle everything from national press interest to social media defamation. ♦
