

Hamilton and Area Hikes: Loops & Lattés

Within Hamilton's urban boundaries, there are stands of rare Carolinian forest, tallgrass prairie, wetlands and savannahs - and, of course, waterfalls. The City of Brantford has a trail system that provides opportunities to explore forest-laden river oxbows and to enjoy some of the best birdwatching the authors have ever encountered.

This guide brings you 34 hiking routes - mostly loops - that give you an insider's view of some of the best spots in the Hamilton and Brant County regions. Concise, detailed directions will take you along a collection of diverse trails while offering tidbits of information about the history, culture and ecology of the land and communities that you visit en route. The book includes insider information about each route, as well as details about parking and what to do for a little apres-hiking enjoyment, such as a bite to eat or a rich latte and where to shop or find a museum.
